

The diagram shows a rectangular layout with three vertical lines: a red line on the left, a blue line in the center, and a red line on the right. The area between the two red lines is divided into three sections by the blue line. Arrows indicate the following: a horizontal arrow pointing left from the blue line, a horizontal arrow pointing right from the blue line, a horizontal arrow pointing left from the left red line, and a horizontal arrow pointing right from the right red line. Additionally, there are two diagonal arrows pointing towards the top center from the left and right red lines.
