

The diagram shows a 4x6 grid of business card layouts. The first column contains a single card. The second column contains two cards stacked vertically. The third and fourth columns each contain three cards stacked vertically. A horizontal blue line runs across the middle of the grid, separating the top and bottom halves. A vertical red line runs down the center of the grid, separating the first two columns from the last two. Two vertical green lines are positioned on either side of the red line, defining the fold area. Arrows point from the text labels to their respective lines: a double-headed arrow for the red line, a single-headed arrow for the blue line, and two single-headed arrows for the green lines.
